Welcome

Welcome to the FdA in Children's and Young People’s Services (pathway) programme for the academic year 2015-2016. We hope that your period of study on this course will be enjoyable and that it will extend your knowledge and understanding in the field of education and care 0 – 19, and help you develop a range of academic and vocational skills which will support your progress to further studies and/or employment.

This programme handbook provides information about the programme to help you with academic and non-academic aspects of your course. You will also find information to support you on this programme within the FdA in Children’s and Young People’s (pathway) website and the university’s on line resource known as UDo (University of Derby Online).

Good luck and enjoyment in your studies.

The University of Derby

Introduction

A foundation degree is a higher education qualification aimed to develop a highly skilled workforce. It is designed and written with employers to meet employment needs and contains work related knowledge, skills and understanding. A foundation degree is a vocational degree; its subject content is vocationally based and includes work based learning. A foundation degree is a degree in its own right. Successful students studying this programme graduate with FdA in Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway). The brackets will contain the title of the specific pathway studied: Early Years, Teaching Assistant or Health and Social Care.

The University of Derby has a great reputation for developing and delivering foundation degrees. The FdA in Children’s and Young People’s Services degree is designed to meet the requirements of a developing workforce. The programme is validated by the University of Derby and is a collaborative provision delivered at the following study centres;
Practitioner provision is at:

Rationale

The FdA in Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway) programme is a work-based/practice-based course that has been designed in consultation with employers to respond to workforce requirements for professionals who can work across the children’s and young people’s sector (0–19). Throughout the course students will develop a core philosophy, knowledge and understanding and the skills and values for working with children and young people in an integrated way. This Foundation Degree enables qualified practitioners/student practitioners already employed or in placement to develop further academic and vocational knowledge. Work-based/practice-based learning is central to the design of this course enabling students to make effective links between theory and practice. The programme aims to create a work-based/practice-based and student centred programme of study that meets professional and personal development needs.

The amalgamation of providers of children’s and young people’s services (0–19 years), bringing together Health, Education, Social Services and Guidance Services for the first time, takes the agenda well beyond inter-agency working into integrated provision. There is a wealth of shared underpinning philosophy between these agencies, but a democratic shared perspective will be difficult to establish after many years of separate working. The different services have found the new agenda challenging, and new roles and responsibilities are emerging as the new multidisciplinary services establish themselves.
Current government reform in the workforce as demonstrated in The Children’ Workforce Strategy (DfES Every Child Matters: Change for Children 2005) and the remodelling of the workforce in schools indicates that there are a number of new opportunities for employment. This has increased demand for a broadening of the available provision within the area of Education, Health and Social Sciences at degree level to meet current workforce developments and employer needs.

Consultation with a range of employers and academics demonstrated the need for a child and youth workforce. This included the development of core philosophy, understanding, skills and values for working with children and young people 0–19 years in an integrated way. To meet this need, Education Studies and Applied Social and Community Studies Subject areas have worked together with support from employers in the sector to develop a cross Faculty Degree Module Framework that will meet current workforce needs.

The Foundation Degree Module Framework comprises of a set of common Pathway Core Modules, sharing the same philosophies, understandings and values for practitioners working in an integrated Children’s and Young People’s Service with children and young people 0 – 19 years of age. A mandatory specialist practitioner Pathway Module leads from the Pathway Core Modules. The Option Modules will include sufficient flexibility to allow students whose work roles change and develop to select modules which meet these changing employment needs.
Programme Aims

The Programme aims to:

- Provide opportunities for students to develop a sound base of knowledge of working in Children’s and Young People’s Services.

- To provide specialist knowledge for working in a specific area of Children’s and Young People’s Services.

- To provide Pathway specific work-based learning and application of practice.

- To provide flexible learning opportunities in a blended independent learning programme.

- To provide widening HE access to non-traditional students.

- To provide vocational work-based learning integrated with academic rigour.

- To meet local and regional employers’ and workforce needs.

- To provide academic and vocational progression opportunities for lifelong learning and career development.

- To provide opportunities for personal and professional development.

- To provide opportunities for reflective practice and the development of reflective practitioners.

The design of the programme broadly reflects those aspects of QAA subject benchmarks for education that apply to a multidisciplinary programme. It was written by staff at the University of Derby in consultation with local employers.
Programme structure

The Foundation Degree is modular in design and comprises of two Stages (Level 4 and Level 5). The term ‘Stage’ is used to describe a programme of study at one level. Four Core modules, one option module and one Pathway module are studied at each Stage. The FdA Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway) is achieved if the student gains a total of 240 credits. Students can be awarded the following:

- Certificate of Higher Education in Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway) by exiting with 120 credits at Level 4
- FdA In Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway) (120 credits at Level 4, 120 credits at Level 5) total 240 credits

In each case the term (pathway) is replaced by the title of the pathway that has been studied; Early Years, Health and Social Care or Teaching Assistant.

- Successful completion of the FdA in Children’s and Young People’s Services (pathway) will be awarded with a classification of distinction, merit, or pass.

There is a progression route to the third Stage (Level 6) of a relevant BA (Hons) degree programme for those students who wish to progress further.

Students already practicing in the sector are required to have a minimum of 2 days per week paid or unpaid work with children or young people in one or more settings. They will hold a full Level 3 qualification relevant to their work. It is a requirement for each student to have a ‘Critical friend’ to support them throughout their Foundation Degree. Many practitioner students work full time and complete the Foundation Degree over three years.

At the University of Derby, Kedleston Road site, a selection of modules at Level 5 are offered through evening delivery. This provides considerable flexibility for students who will construct an Individual Learning Plan with guidance from a tutor. At other centres where the programme is delivered, the timetable is constructed in accordance with student need and tutor availability.

Students with substantial vocational experience or prior certificated learning with CATS points in a relevant discipline can apply for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) or Accreditation of Prior Experiential Learning (APEL). For information about application visit the university’s website and read the guidance notes. This should be discussed with the relevant Pathway Leader or Programme Co-ordinator at your Study Centre who will then forward your completed application form to the Programme Leader at the University of Derby for approval.

The following chart indicates the range of modules from which each study centre provides their planned programme. Details of the module content and learning outcomes are provided in individual module handbooks.

Programme Calendar 2015/16

The following is the University of Derby’s academic calendar. The study centres have arranged their year in line with assessment dates although colleges may begin their teaching sessions sooner in line with FE college start of teaching.

Autumn Semester
Week beginning Sept 14th  Enrolment and Induction
Week beginning Sept 21st  Teaching begins
December 18th  Teaching ends

Spring Semester
Week beginning January 4th  Teaching begins
28th March  Teaching ends

Student Involvement

Student representatives are chosen from each Study Centre to contribute on behalf of their group as members of the FdA in Children’s and Young People’s Services Programme Committee. Students also have the opportunity to give feedback on general issues using Programme Evaluation forms twice each year, and after the completion of each module students are invited to provide feedback on a module form provided by the tutor. Feedback is taken seriously and, wherever feasible, it is acted upon. This is reported in the Programme Enhancement Plan and included in the Action Plan where relevant.

The Learning Contract

The document ‘Rights, Responsibilities and Regulations’ (referred to as ‘The 3Rs’) gives general information on what is expected from students and what they can expect from the university; http://www.derby.ac.uk/academic-regulations. The points made below are specific to students attending this Foundation Degree programme at all Study Centres and are complimentary to these general guidelines.
What we expect from you

- Students are expected to attend a minimum of 80% of the teaching programme.
- Absences should be notified to the relevant Delivery Tutor and/or Programme Coordinator. Any prolonged absences should be discussed with your Personal Tutor and/or Programme Coordinator as soon as possible to avoid problems with completion of modules.
- If students cannot attend a session it is their responsibility to access the lecture materials on-line and to carry out the missed work.
- Students are expected to attend the teaching sessions and to sign up for Module tutorials.
- All work must be completed in line with the specific guidelines given in the module handbooks.
- The university’s guidelines on plagiarism must be strictly adhered to.
- All students must have paid or unpaid work in an appropriate setting throughout their FdA.
- Each student’s work setting must provide a work based critical friend to support the student throughout their entire course.
- Students are expected to check their student emails, the programme web pages and the FdA notice board regularly for any communication from the tutors.

What you can expect from us

- Module tutors from the appropriate delivery sites will be available for individual and/or group tutorials during the planned programme and will give formative feedback on assignment work.
- Personal Tutors will be available for individual consultation regarding pastoral issues.
- A module handbook will be provided on the web pages.
- Lecture notes will be provided for each teaching session on the web pages.
- An individual learning plan with assignment hand in dates will be agreed.
- All marked work will carry feedback to support student’s progress.
- Students who have any additional needs e.g. dyslexia should make this known to Module Leaders and the Student Support Service who will arrange relevant support.
We value your views. Towards the end of the module we will distribute a Module Evaluation Questionnaire to be completed in class time. These are anonymous and details are collated by the University and reflected upon by the Programme Team and they inform future module delivery.

Feedback may also be given to Module Leaders through a Student Representative.

You told us it was hard to fit in tutorials as a part time student.
We have provided a drop in tutorial service every Wednesday until 6pm and personal tutors to arrange tutorials to suit individual needs.

You wanted quicker feedback on assignments.
We have adopted a 3 week turnaround for electronic feedback on assignments (except for holiday periods) but you will be notified if there is any delay.

You told us you really liked the way lectures are structured to make it more fun.
We will audit all module contents to ensure all lectures reflect this.

You told us some lecturers are hard to contact.
We will publish all staff contact information and contact hours so someone is available to offer support.
Module registration

Students must register and pay for each module at the start of delivery. Payment may be self-financing, a sponsorship letter or by financial support package from Student Finance England (http://www.slc.co.uk/students/student-finance-england.aspx). Failure to register on a module may affect the assessment of your assignment.

Attendance

We are committed to helping you get the best from your studies and to keep on track to achieve your award. To help with this, we do monitor student attendance. There are different ways that we do this, your ID card might be scanned in class, or you might be asked to sign a class register.

When you enrol, you agree to a Learner agreement and the expectation is that you regularly attend taught sessions for this module.

If you do not attend, you may be contacted by our Programme Team Leader or Head of School. Not attending taught sessions can sometimes mean that you are no longer able to complete the module successfully and you may be withdrawn from the module (in some cases, even withdrawn from the University/College).

We know that there may be times when there are circumstances that mean you can’t attend, you need to let us know about them as soon as you can so that we can give you the necessary support to continue with your learning on the module.

The Learning and Teaching Strategy

The University’s Learning and Teaching Strategy promotes the delivery of flexible programmes to provide widening participation and access to HE for learners. Underpinning the rationale for the teaching and learning methods selected for the delivery of this programme are the following five themes:

- Widening Participation
- Partnership
- Flexibility
- Work based Learning
- Reflective Practice / Personal and Professional Development

These support the University’s Learning and Teaching Strategy and the QAA Foundation Degree Benchmarks.

The key strategies through which these themes are threaded are summarised as follows.
Blended Teaching and Learning

The programme is delivered in a blended teaching and learning mode utilising a diverse and innovative range of learning and teaching modes including the use of e-learning, on-line resources, audio-visual resources, directed reflective tasks, independent study, seminars, research seminars, work-based activities, group, individual and email tutorials, action planning, individual and group presentation to different audiences, and research. Through these modes students develop knowledge and understanding of working in Children's and Young People's Services and transferable skills for employment and lifelong learning.

- Independent study
- Academic writing
- Research skills
- Time management
- Working in a group
- ICT, PowerPoint, word processing, desktop publishing
- Written and oral communication skills
- Presentation skills
- Personal and Professional development planning/action planning
- Management and leadership skills
- Professional practice skills
- Critical reflection, evaluation and analysis skills
- Subject and specialist service knowledge, skills and understanding
Work-based Learning

“At the forefront of any learning and teaching strategy are the means through which learners are enabled to achieve the intended learning outcomes. In the case of foundation degrees the relevance of skills and their application in a work-based environment, underpinned by academic knowledge and understanding is critical.” (QAA Foundation Degree benchmark 2002 para 29 p.8)

Work-based learning underpinned by academic knowledge and understanding is embedded throughout the programme’s teaching and learning strategy. Students use their every day work setting / work placement to learn from, develop vocational knowledge, skills and understanding and professional practice linking theory to their vocational practice. Tutors direct students to sources of knowledge, theory, experts, research and professional practice to develop critical understanding of the vocational field.

Work-based Mentor ‘Critical Friend’

Student’s work based learning is supported by a work-based mentor ‘Critical Friend’ in the work setting. Training concerning the role of the mentor is provided. Regular Support Meetings are held to support mentors in their role. University Link Tutors visit settings and discuss work based learning and progression issues with the mentor and student.

Flexible delivery

Programme delivery is flexible enabling students to select the delivery time that most suits their work and family commitments.

- Evening provision
- Weekend study days

The delivery supports non-traditional students such as practitioners already working in the Children’s and Young People’s Service in ‘wrap around learning’ allowing for work and family commitments. It is anticipated that the majority of practitioners will access evening provision.
Prior to enrolment each student is given a timetable for the year indicating the delivery of the Pathway Core Modules and the Option Modules. Students, with their Personal Tutor, complete an Individual Learning Plan which identifies their chosen delivery time of each module and their predicted completion date. It is anticipated this will be 2–3 years, although students can take longer, for example, up to five years.

Students are able to apply to the programme at any time during the year. Students will usually enrol only in September and January each year, though this is dependent on the delivery site. The Admissions Tutor will establish an interview schedule throughout the year to accommodate this.

The programme is delivered holistically in collaborative partnership by university and college staff, practitioners and employers. Cross-site provision is identified on the delivery timetable and members of staff deliver modules at their own and other sites.

Student Support

Personal Tutors

Personal Tutors monitor student progress and provide support for students with any additional needs, keeping Module Tutors informed. The Faculty Student Liaison Officers work with tutors to help students with programme engagement. Similar support is provided in the partner colleges.

In designing the programme, employers were consulted and their employment knowledge informed the programme design. The programme complies with the Equality Act (2010).

Additional Needs

The University provides support plans to support students with additional resources for their learning, e.g. a student support mentor to help with students writing assignments, a note taker for a deaf student. A very diverse assessment strategy with a variety of assessment activities and diverse blended teaching and learning modes of delivery accommodates a range of learning and assessment styles to provide access to all students including those with additional needs.

Included in the teaching hours are high levels of designated tutorial time for Module and Personal Tutors to support students with additional needs.

A programme specific website of study materials is provided for students to access.
Additional Support

The University offers a range of advisory services providing support to students. Most services are accessible on a drop-in basis and also offer appointments if you would like to discuss personal or academic related matters in more detail. Please familiarise yourself with the services and if you are experiencing any difficulties make sure that you speak to someone about it.

You will also be using the University of Derby Online (UDo) which provides more information about your course and the University at https://udo.derby.ac.uk

This handbook gives you information on the academic support which relates to the subjects you are studying. Each school has a Student Liaison Officer who can provide information about how the University works and help you to find the most appropriate source of specialist advice.

Setting Visits

University Link Tutors visit settings to discuss work based learning and progression issues with the mentor/supervisor and student. Visit reports will be completed by these Tutors. Copies of these are included in your Reflective (PDP) Journal. Practitioners are visited once a year; by University Link Tutors. A three-way dialogue between the ULT, Student and Work-based Mentor ‘Critical Friend’ about your progress is conducted in the work setting. Any issues are then discussed with the Placement Co-ordinator, Kulsoom Rehman, at the University or the Programme Co-ordinator at the appropriate delivery site.
Assessment

Assessment throughout the Early Years, Health and Social Care and Teaching Assistant Pathways is through 100% coursework and the submission of an assignment for each module. A range and variety of assessments including formative assessment within the first six weeks is provided across the modules. These include; child studies, case studies, work based activities, and work based projects, reflective personal and professional profiles, action plans, research projects and portfolios.

Assessments are progressive and a wide range of strategies are used to test and develop both your subject specific and transferable skills. Formative assessments are helpful to enhance your learning; i.e. assessments which are marked and you are given specific feedback to help you monitor and improve your progress and understanding of a topic. Such assessments will be graded, but the grades do not count towards your final module grade, but undertaking such assessment will potentially help you improve grades of other assessments. Summative assessments are set to formally assess your understanding and skills, i.e. assessments were grades do count towards your final module grade. Coursework includes essays, case studies, reflective portfolios, posters and oral presentations. In some modules group work is assessed.

Referencing

Harvard referencing is used in all assignments. Information can be found on the VLE and is explained fully in the Starting to Study module.

Advice on assignments

If you wish to submit a draft or plan of your essay, module leaders are normally willing to provide brief comments on one plan or draft.

Students who wish to take advantage of this should ask the individual module leader how and when this can best be done. You should submit a draft to the module leader by an agreed date; if you wish the tutor to look at this before the tutorial. You can receive the feedback on your draft in person at the tutorial, or alternatively via email between an agreed time.

Staff may provide brief comments on, for example:

- Whether the essay broadly answers the question
- Any major omissions or errors
- Any major structural problems
- Any major writing or referencing problems

Lecturers will not proof read your essay or predict your grade so please do not ask them to do so.
For advice on essay writing you are advised to consult the study skills material available on the ground floor of the Learning Centre. If you need extra help we recommend the Study Advisor scheme. Under this scheme, you can be matched with a student mentor who will provide one-to-one help with study skills and essay writing. A leaflet introducing the scheme is available in the Learning Centre, and you can contact the coordinators on studyadvisors@derby.ac.uk

Assignment Hand in

Electronic Submission Guide

- All students studying will be required to submit assignments electronically. The number of assignments submitted electronically will vary between modules, but all will be submitted through the individual module areas in Course Resources.

Further guidelines on using the electronic submission system can be found on: www.derby.ac.uk/esub

Exceptional Extenuating Circumstances (EEC)

All work should be submitted on the given hand in date. If work cannot be submitted by or on the submission date, it is very important to discuss this with the RELEVANT Delivery Tutor and/or Programme Coordinator. If you are faced with serious circumstances that may affect you completing an assessment on time, you will need to apply for EEC (exceptional extenuating circumstances). You will still need to hand in the work you have managed to do by the deadline date, but you will have the chance to resubmit the fully completed work at a later date if your EEC application is approved. For more information about what you need to do please visit www.derby.ac.uk/eec or speak to your lecturer.

7 day extensions

In circumstances where you believe you can hand in your work but need some extra time you may be eligible for a 7 day extension. This can be applied for if circumstances out of your control mean you won't be able to meet an assessment deadline. If your application is successful this will allow you to submit your assessment up to 7 days late, without your mark being capped. As with the EEC, you will still need to hand in the work you have managed to do by the deadline date.

If you apply for a late submission you can't normally submit an Exceptional Extenuating Circumstances (EEC) application for the same reason unless you have additional evidence to support your application. Therefore, it's important you make sure you apply for the correct option for your situation. For more information about what you need to do please visit http://www.derby.ac.uk/latesubmission or speak to your lecturer.
Marking Procedures

Marking of work is carefully and rigorously carried out by tutors. Feedback will indicate Learning Outcome achievement and indicate your strengths and areas for development. Within the body of your work there may be additional comments to guide you in your efforts to extend your ideas and to rectify errors. We provide feedback that will support you in your development of critical thought, your skills in academic writing and in your understanding of practice in the field.

Work is marked in line with the University of Derby’s grading criteria. A percentage mark will be given to your work. The Undergraduate Grading Scale is included at the back of this handbook. All assessment deadlines are available from the teaching timetable on UDo or your site of study VLE.

Internal Moderation Procedure

These are in line with the University guidelines. Moderation involves the second marking of a sample of work and the reading of assignments from each module to ensure that the marks awarded are fair and that they represent the scale of grades in the University of Derby’s Undergraduate Scale for undergraduate degrees and foundation degrees. The moderation takes place at the University of Derby by the University of Derby’s tutor team at a moderation meeting. At this moderation meeting samples of assignments from all the study centres are cross moderated to ensure standardisation of marks throughout the collaborative provision.

Often you will find that when you have work returned that there are comments written on your feedback sheet from more than one marker. If this is so, your assignment has been moderated.

Cross Moderation Procedure

A sample of scripts from each of the delivery sites is examined to ensure that the marks awarded are fair and accurate.

External Moderation by the External Examiner

A sample of assignments from all study centres and tutors are seen by the External Examiner to confirm the accuracy and appropriateness of marking and grading. Such rigorous moderation procedures ensure that the grades given are accurate. It is not until the internal and external moderation process has happened that grades are verified and put forward to the Assessment Board. After the Assessment Board students can log onto UDo to access their electronic Statement of Achievement and view progression or award decisions.

The External Examiners are:

- Susan Turner, Newcastle College – Early Years Pathway
- Rhisiart Tal-e-bot, Cornwall College – Teaching Assistant Pathway
- Dr. Wendy Sims-Schouten - Health and Social Care Pathway
Assessment regulations for Foundation Degrees are included in the back of this programme handbook.

Change of student details
(address/name/telephone number/critical friend/supervisor/ employment/placement)

Any change of student details must be given to the university. Only students can change their contact details on the central system at the university by the UDo website. It is important to do this to ensure direct communication from the university.

Academic offences

Please ensure that you read and fully understand the following information before commencing your programme:

Types of Academic Offence
The University regards academic offences very seriously. An academic offence is defined as an action by which a person misleads or deceives another person into believing that intellectual material is their own when it has been obtained from a third party or invented without supporting data. There are several types of possible academic offence in the context of undergraduate research. These are:

(i) Plagiarism
(ii) Inventing data
(iii) Collusion and other forms of deception

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined here as the act of incorporating a body of text obtained from another source and making it appear as if it is your own work. Thus the text appears to be original but is in fact taken from a source which has not been acknowledged. The plagiarised material may have been taken from a website, a thesis, journal, book or any other source. The offence of plagiarism has taken place irrespective of whether it was done with the intention to deceive or not. However, it is regarded as a more serious offence if it is believed that the student has made a calculated attempt to gain undue credit or advantage.

Inventing data

Invention of data occurs where a researcher effectively makes up data to make it appear that the data has been derived by appropriate measurement in the field or in experiment or other setting. Thus the reader is deceived with regard to the true information and the researcher may use the invented data to substantiate a favoured hypothesis. This is regarded as deception and is a very serious academic offence.

Collusion and other forms of deception

If the student consorts with others who may be students or members of staff or external contacts, in order to deceive the reader as to the true origin of information given in a submitted work, then this is an act of collusion. Collusion is an academic offence and as such is unacceptable. Another example of a serious academic offence is committed when a student allows another person to write material on his/her behalf and submits the material as if it is his/her own.

Academic Appeals and Complaints

Academic Appeals for all students should be made to the University in line with processes indicated in the 3Rs (http://www.derby.ac.uk/files/part_k_academic_appeals.pdf) Complaints by students studying at a University of Derby campus should be made in accordance with procedures within the 3Rs whereas students studying at the campus of a collaborative partner should follow the local procedure.

ASSESSMENT REGULATIONS

1. General principles underlying Module Assessment

1.1 Awarding credit for learning achievements

Credits are awarded to students in recognition of their learning achievements. Every module has an approved credit value, which is expressed as a number of credits at a specific level.

1.2 Learning outcomes defined

A learning outcome is a fundamental achievement, which may take the form of the acquisition of knowledge, understanding, an intellectual skill or a practical skill. Learning outcomes are the basis for the learning and assessment strategy in modules.

1.3 Learning outcomes in modules

Each module has a formally identified set of learning outcomes. The learning outcomes and the level of the module together define the standard. Credit may be awarded for a module only if at least the minimum standard of performance has been achieved in every learning outcome within the set.

1.4 Assessments are designed to enable students to demonstrate learning outcomes

Assessments are designed as the means through which students are able to demonstrate achievement of the learning outcomes. Up to two different assessments (assessment components) may be ascribed to a module. These may take the form of essays, presentations, group work activities, projects or other assessments (commonly termed coursework), and seen or unseen examinations. An assessment component may sometimes take the form of a number of small submissions e.g. lab reports or short in-class tests. Each assessment component may carry one learning outcome which will be assessed against the assessment criteria. Students must be informed as to the assessment criteria which are designed to test achievement of the learning outcomes of the module and indicate the level of performance required.

1.5 The assessment of the academic performance

In assessing a student's work, the tutor is required to judge its quality in accordance with the stated criteria. If the quality of the work satisfies the criteria, the tutor awards the appropriate grade from the range of pass grades and the learning outcome[s] attached to the assessment is [are] deemed satisfied. If the quality of the work submitted does not satisfy the criteria, the appropriate fail grade is given.

1.6 Minimum standard of performance

Since each assessment component tests one or more of the learning outcomes, and each outcome is tested only once, at least a minimum standard of performance (40% overall, 35% minimum for each Learning Outcome) is required in every assessment component.

IMPORTANT: An assignment may show the characteristics of two or more marks. The examiner should give careful consideration to the relative importance of the applicable descriptors as indicated by the assessment criteria in deciding the overall standard of the work and the appropriate mark to be awarded.

1.7 Referral and failure

(i) Students are normally entitled to one referral opportunity in each of the failed assessment components. Any and all entitlements to referral can be removed following a proven academic offence or a decision taken by the University Assessment Board for Exceptional Circumstances (UABEC), or if special conditions apply to meet the requirements of an external agency.

2. Late Work

Work which is submitted after the designated deadline for a coursework assessment is deemed late.

If serious circumstances beyond a student’s control affect their ability to complete an assessment they may submit a claim for Exceptional Extenuating Circumstances (EEC). This must be accompanied by evidence and the work done to date, by the original assessment submission deadline. This will be considered by an EEC panel.

Where a student has a good reason for late submission which does not amount to an exceptional circumstance, the relevant Subject Manager can authorise an extension up to 7 days with no grade penalty. The Subject Manager will expect to see compelling evidence that such an extension is appropriate.

There is no entitlement to submit late after an agreed submission extension, (e.g. deferral), nor for the submission of referred work.

If the work is tendered after the agreed extension, it is not marked and an NS grade is recorded. Referred works submitted late are not marked and an NS grade is recorded.

3. Important information about changes to our undergraduate regulations from academic year 2015/2016.

Now that you have enrolled for 2015/16 academic year, you will need to be aware of changes to our regulations. The changes will be in the 2014/15 edition of the 3Rs. It is your responsibility that you understand what they are, and what they might mean for you. For more detail and a summary of key changes refer to:
http://www.derby.ac.uk/about/organisation/academic-regulations/.
4. Statement of Achievement

4.1 At the end of each semester, following publication of the results in individual modules, an electronic Statement of Achievement will be available to every student via UDo. This will take the form of a transcript listing all modules taken by the student which can count towards an undergraduate award, together with any modules (credits) approved through RPL. It will also state the total number of credits accumulated to date at each credit level.

4.2 Using this information, in conjunction with advice offered by tutors, students will plan the next phase of their programme.

LEARNING ZONE ASSISTANTS

Learning Zone Assistants are based in the Library Learning Centres and provide help with all aspects of assignment work, research skills, MyCourse, referencing and study skills. In addition there are Independence Coaches who provide support for students accessing DSA. See Section 2.

VALNOW

The VALNOW system is a resource for HE students, which allows access to the University’s Learning Centre book and on-line learning resources in addition to those available in the College. The VALNOW service is accessible from any computer in the College which has internet access and you will be shown how to use the system during induction. The Learning Centre staff are also available to assist students with the VALNOW system.

LEARNING FACILITIES

MYCOURSE (Virtual Learning Environment) is an online area where all students can access course materials, resources and information. Live @ Edu gives access to students’ own college email account, 25GB of storage space, access to online applications such Word and PowerPoint and a variety of communication and collaboration tools. The Extranet allows access to work saved at college from anywhere in the world, without the need for disks or pen drives. The student homepage is a portal for thousands of online resources. The E-Info Centre can be accessed from the student homepage and learners can see messages from tutors and advertised events.

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS

SEND

Support for HE students is accessed through an application to the Disabled Students’ Allowance (DSA). The application requires current up-to-date evidence of your Specific Learning Difficulty and/ or Disability as defined under the disability section of the Equality Act 2010. The DSA decide upon your eligibility for support which is funded by Student Finance England (SFE). If you are eligible for support, your needs are assessed by a Needs Assessment Centre who will write a report detailing your support and recommendations.
Therefore if you have a Specific Learning Difficulty and/or Disability that may affect your studies, please inform us prior to enrolment. Please follow the hyperlink for more information on the DSA:

https://www.gov.uk/disabled-students-allowances-dsas

You can also contact us for guidance via:

Telephone: 01772 225335 or 225217

Email: ndixon@preston.ac.uk
rgreenwood@preston.ac.uk

If you do not have the evidence to support your application but would like to be assessed for a Specific Learning Difficulty please contact us via the details above. In order to ensure that students at Preston’s College are treated equally and to ensure the system for charging is transparent and consistent with our HE partners; a contribution of £100 per student for a full diagnostic assessment has been introduced. In cases where you are not eligible to apply for DSA your tutor will make reasonable adjustments to accommodate your needs.

STUDENT SERVICES

Student Services is based on the ground floor of the Earnshaw Building, at the Fulwood Campus. If you wish to make an appointment for an interview with a Welfare Adviser, then these can be made at the Help Desk, in person or by telephoning (01772) 225656. We also offer a Welfare 'Drop-in' facility most lunch times. Alternatively please contact us via email or through the college website:

studentservices@preston.ac.uk or www.Preston's.ac.uk/studentservices

The Counselling Service provides a confidential place for students in “crisis” or where specified as part of a student’s Needs Assessment. The College counsellors will be able to signpost students to external services, if ongoing support is needed.

Information about the College’s services, support, policies and procedures are available on our online Student eHandbook which is accessible via the Student Portal. Information is updated regularly.

A weekly Bulletin is made available on ProPortal and via email providing useful, current information about College life.

ProPortal, a performance monitoring system, allows you to access information about your own academic progress, up to date attendance and enables you to communicate with College staff.

THE LEARNER VOICE – HAVE YOUR SAY

You can play an important part in the process of improving the quality of the course through the feedback that you give. A system exists to ensure all students have the opportunity to have their views and concerns heard at all levels of the College.
Early in semester one you will elect a Course Representative (normally one per group) who you can trust to be able to put forward your problems and concerns. Please note that these are concerns which affect the academic development of the group as a whole. Individual and / or personal problems should be brought up with your Nominated Tutor as and when the need arises.

Your elected Course Representative will:

- Gather group opinions
- Consider the external examiners report for the Course
- Attend Staff, Student Liaison Committee (SSLC) meetings
- Communicate items from the meetings
- Lead discussions between the group and Course Leader/Team
- Work with the Course Leader / Team to improve the Course for all
- Take part in the 3 student Conferences held each term

All students have the opportunity to affiliate to the National Union of Students and take advantage of the many discounts that then become available.

STUDENT FEEDBACK

In addition final year students will be asked to complete the National Student Survey in semester 2.

However, if you do have any problems, please do not wait for a questionnaire to tell us, as we may be able to do something immediately to remedy the problem.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

We seek nominations each year for a Higher Education Student Representative on the College’s Student Council. We welcome your enthusiasm for this and if you wish to seek nomination please inform your Course Tutor.

THE STUDENTS UNION (SU)

All students have the opportunity to affiliate to the National Union of Students - NUS.org.uk - and take advantage of the many discounts that then become available.

The Students’ Union is a student-led, democratic organisation and exists to make life better for you.

The Union is all about you taking the opportunities that are offered and making the most of them.

COMPLAINTS AND COMPLIMENTS

If at any time you are dissatisfied with any aspect of the College’s provision or services, you should discuss this in the first instance with your Nominated Tutor or the Programme Team Leader.

You can also lodge a complaint with Student Services. Student Services staff will provide you with guidance on how to make a complaint. If you wish to complement the college or the course team please also place your compliment with student services.
A copy of the full College Complaints Procedure and Complaints Forms are available from Student Services and on the Student e-handbook. If you have exhausted all college procedures you are able to take your complaint to Derby University.

THE STUDENT CHARTER

Preston’s College has adopted a Student Charter, which spells out those things which the College promises to do its best to provide you with. In addition, the Charter also sets out the College’s expectations of you during your time here. This can be found in the e-handbook.

Conduct

You will be expected to abide by the Regulations for the Conduct of Students in the College and expect you to behave in a respectful manner demonstrated by for example, using appropriate language in class, and switching mobile phones / other devices off prior to attending classes.

If your behaviour is considered to be unacceptable, any member of academic staff is able to issue an informal oral warning and the College will support staff by invoking formal procedures where necessary.

PROGRESSION

Discussions about your progression through the course normally take place in February each year. It is an opportunity for you to make plans for your study over the next academic year. The Course Team will tell you about the various modules / combinations available and you will both agree on the most appropriate course of study for you.

Throughout your time with us we will provide a range of opportunities by which you can plan for your progression. In addition you will have opportunities to consider other options to you and your Nominated Tutor will be instrumental in this and can direct you to other sources of careers information advice and guidance.
